

Working in Your Course Video Transcript

Let's talk about working in your course.

Your course contains a substantial number of activities and problems that need to be solved in order to progress. The activity's resources are there to unlock the answers to the activity and provide the content you'll need to know when you take the exam.

Each lesson's resources appear on the right side of your screen. You can view the resource within your course viewer screen or open it in a new tab for a larger view. When viewing a resource, you also have the options to bookmark, download, or print it. If you download, the file may appear at the bottom of your browser or in your default file location, depending on your internet browser settings. To bookmark a resource for easy access later on, click "bookmark resource" in the upper left corner when open, or when closed, you can click the star to the right of the resource name.

Once bookmarked, you'll see it in the bookmarked resources whenever you return to course home. But if you forgot to bookmark a resource, there's no cause for worry. By clicking View All Resources you can access, review, and bookmark all the resources from lessons you've already completed.

Moving back to the home page, let's take a look at working in a lesson. As you progress through each lesson, you'll exercise the knowledge you learned from your resources in a variety of activities. You'll want to read the instructions for each activity carefully before working through it. If multiple correct answers are required, for example, the instructions will tell you so. If you've chosen the incorrect answer, tips will appear in red to help you answer correctly. Click Try Again to complete the activity again, and remember that you can access your resource to review the information at any time during the activity.

Once the activity has been successfully completed, you'll be able to proceed to the next slide in the lesson, and so on through each section. At the end of each section, we'll ask you to complete a quick survey question asking how we've done, to ensure we're on track to providing you the best student experience possible through each step of your course. Then, you'll be provided with study resources recapping the information covered in that section. All the resources to which you've had access, and your end-of-section study sheets will be available for you to review before your course exams, and will serve as study materials in helping you prepare for your licensing exam further down the road.
