

No License Required

Article 25 of the Michigan Occupational Code lists activities that require a license, but did you know it also lists activities that don't require a license (§339.2503)? The following activities don't require a real estate license in Michigan:

- A licensed builder that sells what it builds (never occupied), up to a quadruplex
- Anyone appointed by the court
- Individuals who lease houses they own
- Owner sale (as long as it doesn't happen more than five times in 12 months)
- Attorneys-in-fact (legal power of attorney)
- Anyone who has a license under the Michigan Mortgage Brokers, Lenders, and Servicers Act
- Anyone involved in selling a property at the behest of another such as:
 - Attorneys
 - Bankruptcy trustees
 - Deed of trust trustees
 - Executors
 - Anyone selling under court order
 - Receivers
 - Administrators
